1 The United States and Walker River Paiute Tribe (“Plaintiffs”) respond in opposition to
 2 Schroeder Group’s Motion for Reclassification of Principal Defendant Schroeder Group (ECF
 3 No. 2681) (“Motion”). At bottom, the Motion seeks modification of the Order Regarding
 4 Discovery and Motion Schedule and Procedure (ECF No. 2611) (“Scheduling Order”). Yet, the 5 Motion offers no substantive justification, let alone the required good cause, for making any
 6 alteration to the Scheduling Order and Plaintiffs would be unfairly prejudiced were the Motion
 7 granted. The Scheduling Order has efficiently guided the thoroughly contested litigation of 8 Plaintiffs’ claims, including the Schroeder Group’s challenges and affirmative defenses to those 9 claims, for almost two years and no reason exists to relieve the Schroeder Group of the 10 obligations it accepted when it voluntarily became a Principal Defendant. The Court should deny
 11 the Motion.
 12

14 RESPONSE IN OPPOSITION

15 The Schroeder Group asks that the Scheduling Order be modified so that it is no longer
 16 considered a “Principal Defendant” as originally stipulated by all affected parties and as defined
 17 in that order.¹ Whether the Scheduling Order can or should be modified is governed by Fed R.
 18 Civ. P. 16(b)(4), which succinctly provides: “A schedule may be modified only for good cause
 19 and with the judge's consent.” The plain language of the rule recognizes that absent good cause, 20 scheduling orders should remain unchanged through the course of litigation so that the Court and 21 the parties can depend on a consistent schedule and structure to accomplish the litigation. The 22 Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has long recognized that whether a request to modify a

27 ¹ The Schroeder Group is comprised of Fenili Family Trust, Six-N Ranch, Inc., John and Laura Weaver Family Trust, Smith Valley Garage, Inc., and Donald Giorgi. Each member of the Schroeder Group is a Principal Defendant as defined in the Scheduling Order. In this Response, the Schroeder Group will be referred to in the singular though multiple parties are included.

1 scheduling order is supported by “good cause” under Rule 16(b)(4) turns on the requesting
 2 party’s diligence in complying with the Order and the reasons presented to justify the 3 modification.² If the requesting party’s reasoning is sufficient, the court may also consider any 4 prejudice to a party opposing modification of a scheduling order to discern whether an
 5 amendment is warranted.³

 7 The Schroeder Group fails to meet the basic good-cause standard. The unstated but
 8 unmistakable goal of the Motion is that if the Schroeder Group were no longer considered a
 9 “Principal Defendant” under the Scheduling Order it would not be subject to ongoing scheduling
 10 and discovery obligations. But, the Schroeder Group is an active, vocal participating party that 11 has filed two answers against Plaintiffs’ amended claims alleging a host of factual and legal 12 challenges and affirmative defenses for which discovery is necessary.⁴ The Schroeder Group
 13 offers no good cause for its request which, if granted, would unfairly prejudice Plaintiffs in this 14 litigation by leaving unresolved the answers it filed in this case.
 15

16 I. Schroeder Group has not shown good cause for modifying the Scheduling
 17 Order.

18 In its Motion, the Schroeder Group makes no mention of and gives no consideration to 19 the governing good-cause standard of Rule 16(b)(4). In fact, the Schroeder Group offers no
 20 substantive basis to justify its request. Certainly, no circumstances have changed since the

27 ⁴ See The Schroeder Group’s Answer to Amended Counterclaim of the United States of America for Water Rights
 28 Asserted on Behalf of the Walker River Paiute Indian Tribe (ECF No. 2541) and The Schroeder Group’s Answer to Second Amended Counterclaim of the Walker River Paiute Tribe (ECF No. 2542) (“Answers”).

1 Scheduling Order’s issuance to justify the Schroeder Group’s request. The water rights claimed
2 by the United States and Tribe have been known throughout the Walker River Basin for many
3 years. By 2019, after decades of effort to serve all potentially affected water rights holders,
4 litigation of Plaintiffs’ water right claims began in earnest.⁵ In 2020, at the Court’s insistence, all
5 active parties including the Schroeder Group drafted, negotiated, and presented to the Court the 6 Scheduling Order in anticipation of the active litigation we now engage. Since the Scheduling
7 Order was issued, the parties have proceeded to litigate as anticipated: Plaintiffs’ amended
8 claims have detailed the exact parameters of the water rights they seek; Principal Defendants
9 submitted numerous responses to the amended claims; and the Parties have actively engaged in 10 discovery and motions practice to eliminate the many faulty defenses alleged by the Principal
11 Defendants, including the Schroeder Group. The Schroeder Group itself filed substantial
12 Answers raising a host of legal and factual allegations in opposition to Plaintiffs’ claims,
13 including sixteen independent affirmative defenses to which Plaintiffs have had to prepare and
14 against which Plaintiffs have defended and will continue to defend against.⁶

15
17
18 The Schroeder Group provides just two discernable circumstances for requesting
19 modification of the Scheduling Order, namely, it claims that the Schroeder Group’s participation
20 is akin to “monitoring” of this litigation⁷ and it claims that it is under the burden of the expense
21

22 ⁵ See Stipulated Scheduling Order and Discovery Plan (ECF No. 2437).

23 ⁶ Over the last twenty-four months, as legal and factual circumstances solidified, Plaintiffs have diligently worked to 24 narrow the issues and affirmative defenses that remain in controversy between Plaintiffs and Principal Defendants.
25 Based on Plaintiffs’ motion for judgment on the pleadings and motion for summary judgment, the Court has 26 dismissed nine affirmative defenses asserted by Principal Defendants including the Schroeder Group. See Order
27 (ECF No. 2626); Order (ECF No. 2677). Of the sixteen affirmative defenses asserted by the Schroeder Group, nine
28 have been determined to be without legal or factual merit and subject to judgment. Nevertheless, seven affirmative defenses asserted by the Schroeder Group remain active subjects of litigation.

⁷ Motion at 3.

1 of litigation.⁸ But, these circumstances fail to recognize the Schroeder Group's major role in
2 developing and extending the litigation at hand. First, the Schroeder Group has hardly been in a
3 "monitoring" position in this litigation; instead, it has been a full, longstanding, active
4 participant. It is for this reason that the Schroeder Group was included in the Scheduling Order
5 as a Principal Defendant in the first place and this circumstance remains unchanged.
6 Participation of the Schroeder Group has been indistinguishable from every other identified
7 Principal Defendant in developing the Principal Defendants' expert reports (ECF No. 2656),
8 preparing discovery requests, responding to Plaintiffs' discovery requests (ECF No. 2641; ECF
9 No. 2672), and responding to Plaintiffs' motions (ECF No. 2619; ECF No. 2649) - all of which 10 have been signed by the Schroeder Group.

13 Second, the expense in this litigation is neither unexpected nor unwarranted. In fact, the 14 Schroeder Group has itself made a host of complicated factual and legal allegations that would 15 foreseeably and naturally necessitate development through discovery. The expense it is burdened 16 with, although not detailed, is in large part of its own making because it has insisted on actively
17 opposing Plaintiffs' claims. Certainly over two years, the Schroeder Group has failed to act
18 diligently by seeking modification of the Scheduling Order before running up expenses through 19 participation in defense of its affirmative defenses and through foreseeable discovery disputes.
20 Without such diligence, Schroeder Group has wholly failed to show good cause for its request.⁹
21 In any event, the Schroeder Group cannot reasonably expect any relief until its factual and legal 22 allegations as well as its asserted affirmative defenses detailed in its Answers are overcome.

25
26 ⁸ Motion at 4-5.

27 ⁹ See Johnson, 975 F.2d at 609 ("Rule 16(b)'s "good cause" standard primarily considers the diligence of the party 28 seeking the amendment.").

II. Plaintiffs will be prejudiced if the Schroeder Group is not classified as a Principal Defendant.

Not only does the Motion fail to establish good cause,¹⁰ but even if good cause could be established by the Schroeder Group, unfair prejudice would result to Plaintiffs from the requested amendment. As mentioned, the unmistakable goal of the Motion is that the Schroeder Group would no longer be considered a “Principal Defendant” under the Scheduling Order. It follows that the Schroeder Group would contend that it is no longer subject to the litigation and discovery obligations of the Scheduling Order. But the Schroeder Group's Answers remain substantial obstacles to Plaintiffs’ water right claims. Plaintiffs are entitled to disclosures and discovery from all Principal Defendants including the Schroeder Group in order to adequately build their case.

In fact, relevant here but unstated in the Motion, Plaintiffs and the Schroeder Group are currently in the midst of an ongoing and unresolved discovery dispute. Plaintiffs have served discovery requests on all Principal Defendants, but the Schroeder Group has objected and withheld responsive discoverable material. Plaintiffs’ counsel and counsel for the Schroeder Group have consulted over the matter, but the dispute remains unresolved. As a named Principal Defendant and having contested Plaintiffs’ claims with allegations and affirmative defenses, the Schroeder Group remains bound by the obligations of the Scheduling Order as originally contemplated.

Although the Schroeder Group did not consult with Plaintiffs before filing its motion, Plaintiffs recognize from its Motion that the Schroeder Group no longer wishes to participate in ¹⁰ If good cause is not established, that is the end of the matter. In re W. States Wholesale Nat. Gas Antitrust Litig., 715 F.3d at 737.

1 this proceeding.¹¹ The Schroeder Group cannot simply cease to be a Principal Defendant.
2 Plaintiffs believe that the only way for the Schroeder Group to be relieved of the obligations of a
3 Principal Defendant and the Scheduling Order is for either its Answers be withdrawn or its
4 Answers be declared entirely co-extensive with the answers of other Principal Defendants.¹²
5 Were the Answers withdrawn or declared co-extensive, Plaintiffs would have no objection to the 6 Schroeder Group being removed from the Scheduling Order's list of Principal Defendants and,
7 thereafter, being considered a party who may file an answer and participate in these proceedings
8 only if first given leave by the Court as contemplated by the earlier scheduling order of March 7,
9 2019.¹³

12 CONCLUSION

13 For the reasons provided in the paragraphs above, the Motion should be denied.
